

STUDENTS ELECT CULP

"Rejected" to Be Mayhem Theme

On May 19th, the west patio of the Memorial Student Union will much like the old ones in that bury State College's 1967 Mayhem production.

This year's Mayhem, the first in over four years, was written by John Watters, with the assistance of Lucky Moore and Bill Montgomery. The new Mayhem is much like the old ones in that it is an attempt to point out some of the humorous aspects of college life and, hopefully, to help students and faculty to laugh at themselves. It is different from other Mayhem productions in that Rejected is not a series of disorganized skits, but rather a sequence of interrelated scenes which unfold the sad story of Arthur, an ambitious, but unsuccessful author, who tries repeatedly to have the story of his years at Salisbury State College published. Joe DeCervo, in the lead role as Arthur, and Bobbi Bradbury, as Arthur's sweetheart, April, sadly sing of their hardships in every phase of college life, from registration to graduation. They are assisted in this feat by Lucky Moore and Kaye Alfonsi who play Arthur's and April's roommates. Also in the Mayhem cast are Doug Eisenhauer and Mary Spence who play Arthur and April as adults.

Included in Rejected are such memorable tunes as "I Was Mr. Chicken Fat at SSC," "Robert's Rules Says You're Out of Order," "We Hate Tea," "Congo Closed," and "Spaghetti and Apricots." The show, besides being filled with original songs, has much dancing and many of the crowd scenes that are so typical of SSC. A folk group will be featured as will a group from the modern dance club.

Mayhem always has been and is again this year a college-wide endeavor. This production has been a joint effort of the students, faculty, and administration. Dean Volenik helped stage and direct the production and will also make a brief appearance in the show itself. Also making brief appearances in the show will be various members of the SSC faculty.

Circle K Shows Active Service

This has been a busy year for the Circle K, the organization devoted to serving the campus and the community. There were 19 members in the club at the beginning of the semester. These members and their officers directed their time and talents in services which benefited the student body this year and which laid the foundations for perhaps an even more active year beginning next semester. Dave Sammons acted as president, and his first and second vice-presidents were Rick Biggs and Ed Coulston, respectively. Larry Cassell served as secretary, and Ben Sturgis handled the treasurer's duties.

All students saw evidence of Circle K's contribution when the Student Directories were distributed early in the first semester. The members of Circle K compiled and organized the data in this helpful booklet and distributed a copy of it to all students. This organization's presence was also felt at the basketball and soccer games. Circle K was also responsible for the printed programs available and for the sale of Cokes at all of the home basketball games. Some of its members acted as linesmen at the home soccer games. Also among Circle K's activities this year were the collection of presents for needy children at Christmas time and and sponsoring of several car washes held to build up the treasury and to further serve the community. Most recently, Circle K held a drive to sell lawn food in the Salisbury area.

Highlights

Perhaps the highlight of Circle K's activities this year came at the Circle K convention at the Presidential Court Motel in Lynchburg, Virginia, April 14th through the 16th. The convention brought together representatives from the seven divisions of Circle K organizations in the Capital District. These divisions are scattered over areas in Maryland, Delaware, and Virginia. Salisbury State and Wesley College make up the first division in the district. SSC was represented by Ed Coulston, Rick Biggs, Doug Eisenhauer, Larry Cassell, and a Sweetheart Queen, Sandy Benton, who was selected by the Circle K membership. These representatives brought important news when they returned on the 16th. At the convention Larry Cassell had been elected to serve as Lieutenant governor of the first division next year.

The Circle K is definitely a growing organization on campus. A recent membership drive was responsible for attracting 14 new members, and next year's officers have already been elected. Ed Coulston will take over as president next year. Doug Eisenhauer and Terry Hicks will act as first and second vice-presidents, and Rick Biggs will remain active as the club's secretary, Frank Parks was elected to the treasurer's post, and Alan Planner and Joe Whitlock will serve on the Board of Directors.

In planning for next year, Circle K hopes to carry out the same type of services which marked its involvement in campus and community life this year. New plans for next year include the

On Monday, May 1st, Jim Culp defeated Bill Montgomery in the run-off election for next year's Student Government Association president.

This run-off election was necessitated when neither candidate received a required majority of the votes cast in the general voting held on Thursday, April 27. The other SGA officers were elected in Thursday's election, however. Bruce Hartley will serve in the capacity of vice-president next year. Joanne Collins, running unopposed, will take over as secretary, and Denny Marriott, also unopposed in this election, will shoulder the responsibilities of the treasury. Six representatives-at-large were also elected. These people, who will represent the entire student body and not specific classes, are Cheryl Meyers, Marilyn Schneck, Bill Montgomery, Joe DeCervo, Rick Biggs, and Lucky Moore. Class representatives to the SGA will be selected in the individual class elections.

Next year's Homecoming Queen was also elected during Thursday's voting. Joanne Collins received this honor as a record number of voters cast their votes in this election. The 1967 Homecoming Committee decided that the queen should be elected in this year's voting instead of in a fall election. This will enable Miss Collins to reign for a full year.

Culp Experienced

Jim Culp is no stranger to SGA affairs. He served in the capacity of sophomore class representative during the first semester. After the resignation of vice-president, Craig Livingston, Mr. Culp was elevated to the position of interim vice-president. In an interview Mr. Culp said that his decision to seek the presidency of next year's SGA was made in the middle of March of this year. After consultations with many people, he felt that he would be the best candidate for that post. Although he disagrees with the attaching of labels on people involved in campus politics, Mr. Culp claimed that if he would have to attach such a label on himself it would be that of a progressive.

Compliments Garrick

When asked about his thoughts concerning the functions of this year's SGA, Mr. Culp complimented Michael Garrick for his adeptness at conducting this year's meetings, an adeptness which "permitted free discussion without continual repetition and confusion." Mr. Culp expressed hopes of conducting next year's meetings along the same efficient lines. Continuing to comment on this year's SGA, he said, "It took a long time for the board members to learn to work together, but once they did learn to work together, they effectively attempted to serve their purpose, that of fitting the social programs to the needs of the student body." He cited this as one of the major accomplishments of this year's Student Gov-sponsoring of dances and possibly the founding of a canoe club. According to Larry Cassell, the members of Circle K hope to develop the functions and character of the club to an even greater height, so that it will always be an active and important organization at SSC.

New SGA President

ernment. In his opinion the major accomplishment was the reduction of the old eight-page SGA constitution to a more efficient four-page document. He also pointed out that the establishment of the Judicial Committee, whose function it is to relieve the entire SGA board of the task of interpreting the constitution, was another successful innovation this year.

Some changes are planned in Mr. Culp's administration. He hopes to have the agenda published as nearly as possible before each meeting. In order to have a more even distribution of committee assignments and chairmanships, he hopes to appoint many SGA board and non-board members to the SGA committees so that one person will not be burdened with more than one committee assignment. To change the budgeting procedures, he would like to meet with representatives of the SGA member organizations to discuss the financial needs of each before the question of allocations comes before the SGA board.

Mr. Culp has hopes of initiating a policy by which the SGA member organizations will actively participate in regular group discussions as well as in such activities as Mayhem. He would also like to have each of these organizations submit, as much in advance as possible, a monthly calendar of events to the Student Life Committee so that an extensive calendar of campus activities can be available each month.

Faculty Evaluation

Mr. Culp also outlined the progress of the Faculty Evaluation Committee. The committee has prepared a general evaluation sheet to be filled out by selected committee members during the evaluation of each participating faculty member during next year's first semester, should the administration approve of this procedure. If these plans are approved, the completed evaluation sheets will be sealed and delivered to the respective professors at the end of the semester. The success of the work of this committee is viewed optimistically by Mr. Culp.

When asked what he thought the Student Government Association should mean to each student, Mr. Culp replied, "The SGA is your organization, designed to serve you by expressing your opinion, by executing varied programs for your benefit, and by providing you with an ample opportunity in general college life."

Mrs. Oberfrank To Leave SSC

After five years as the director of Sophanes Players, Mrs. Jacqueline Oberfrank is leaving Salisbury State to continue her graduate studies. Mrs. Oberfrank's loss will be felt keenly by Sophanes, because she has been more than a director — she has been a friend, a critic, and a fellow worker. She has designed and made costumes, mounted and set lights, designed and built scenery, collected props, and acted in one production; at the same time, she has drawn masterful performances from her student actors. The productions of The Private Lives of the Master Race, Aria Da Capo, Aur Town, Summer and Shoke, and Waiting for Godot will be remembered as examples of the quality of work Mrs. Oberfrank produces.

Mrs. Oberfrank's contribution to Sophanes Players can best be assessed by the students with whom she has worked. Some of them have expressed themselves as follows:

"She's a fabulous director and really knows what she's doing on and off stage. You really have to admire her for her work and her intelligence. She's great to work under; you feel like you really know what she wants and you try to work for it."

"I think she's the most intelligent woman on this campus. In her field, I think she's an expert. I admire her more than any teacher I've had in my life."

"She is very thorough, but she is a fair judge. She demands the best out of you and that's more than a lot of other instructors."

"I think she's very nice. She's a frank and sincere person and a good director."

Mrs. Jacqueline Oberfrank

hard-won acting success that she has helped me achieve. I am afraid Salisbury is losing one of the most creative personalities it has had in recent years."

"Mrs. Oberfrank has, perhaps, been the best experience of my two years at SSC. She is indeed demanding, but I am flattered that she considered me worthy of demand."

"There are few people that could do so much with so little. She has done much for the members of Sophanes and for the college. Replacing her is going to be very difficult."

"I think she's very capable and talented. I think she's done a great deal to upgrade the drama department until it's become a really fine part of the college."

"She can inflict a terror in you, but once she's finished you realize how wrong you were and how right she was. I'm going to miss her, and I'm sure many others will. We in Sophanes should feel indebted to her and must always remember her."

EDITORIAL

To the Editor:

Recently there has been much furor about the Faculty Evaluation Committee formed by students for the purpose of having students rate faculty members. I do not wish to quibble over the supposed merits or demerits of such an evaluation. However, the attitude with which this evaluation is carried out is extremely important, and the attitude evidenced by some of those students present at the meeting which I attended seemed most unfortunate.

The supposed purpose of this committee is to "help the faculty help themselves," but the idea of some of the students appeared to be, "Well, since these people are too stupid to know what's wrong, we'll do the man immense service by telling them." One of these students, I had heard (earlier that same day) say that he had never had any problem in getting help from any of his teachers or in communicating with them; but at this particular meeting, no faculty person with tenure could, in his opinion, possibly be persuaded to accept this helpful service. Several of the students wanted criteria placed on the evaluation sheet, that would be tailor-made to fit their most-disliked instructor. This is hardly an objective approach.

The manner in which the evaluation is to be carried out also seems rather unfortunate. The evaluation sheets are to be filled out during class time, while the instructor has left the room (so that he wouldn't exercise any undue influence over the students). And, of course, since this is to help the instructor (and not to hurt the student) the evaluation sheets are placed in a sealed envelope and given to the instructor after the grades have been turned in. Such an attitude fosters a feeling of distrust and hostility rather than a sense of cooperation.

Although some of the students at this meeting were sincerely interested in making Faculty Evaluation a useful tool for improvement, the general tenor of the meeting was one of a "gripe session." This blatant hypocrisy is not justified, nor is it necessary. Nor is the formation of an official committee of the Student Government Association necessary in order for students to congregate to complain about their instructors.

Sincerely,
Anne Ritchings

Dr. Page planting petunias. Lady Bird take notice . . .

Dr. Page Plants Petunias

"Students don't realize what they're missing by not having more flowers on campus," stated Dr. A. Nayland Page, associate professor of history. "I planted petunias there because the flower beds looked like they needed petunias."

Dr. Page, who planted 120 petunias in the west patio flower beds of the student union building, feels that the beautification of the college campus is in part, the responsibility of the students.

"I'd like to see the students take the initiative now and draw up a master plan for the landscaping of the campus," Dr. Page realizes that the students would need professional guidance in the planning to assure the suitability and practicality of the chosen plants, but feels that the action should originate with the students.

Dr. Page added that "the planting program should be correlated with the proposed building plans so that the flowers and shrubs need not be pulled out to make room for construction." He also suggested that all student plans, together with appropriate diagrams, be submitted in writing to the administration for approval.

With a little bit of imagination on the part of the students, Dr. Page feels that the Salisbury State campus could be a very attractive one.

The Delmarva poultry industry has become so big it spends $2½ million a year on such items as postage, telegrams, phone calls and fire insurance premiums alone.

You Vote . . . Then What?

This headline might appear in the Holly Leaf next year. After the farce that occurred several weeks ago, I feel sure that it is a complete possibility. The awarding of Achievement Keys was not an award to those who deserved it. There were 25 people who received this award, and, in my estimation, only 13 (at the most) were deserving of the award. What about the other 12? I don't know. The 13 I mentioned are people who are active in such organizations as SGA, MDA, WDA, Holly Leaf, and Evergreen. These are organizations that contribute to the total school environment.

What organizations have these other 12 been in? Spanish Club, MAA? These are organizations that are important on a campus, but does everyone benefit from them? No. They play only a small part in the average college student's life. There were some people who are not even in one club or organization. So, what have these people contributed?

The Handbook for Students states that the Achievement Key is awarded "on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and contributions to the total life of the college" (p. 19). I'll admit that all students who received the key were students with very high academic averages. BUT, what else do they have? Leadership? Have any of them been to an SGA or Student Life Committee meeting? Whom do these people lead? And, again, what have they contributed to the total life of the college? Just because you have a high academic average, you are not a leader. Therefore, what is the Achievement Key for, in reality? Scholarship and only scholarship. It is important that those people who have high academic averages be recognized. But isn't this what the Dean's List is for? The only qualification for Dean's List is a 3.25 average. And it, also seems that that is the only qualification for the Achievement Key.

Who decides who is selected for Who's Who? A secret committee? Who chooses the secret committee? For this honor you need only an average of 2.5. There are no other qualifications listed for this. Therefore I assume that probably leadership and contributions to the school are among the criteria. But, was the SGA President selected? No. I guess he doesn't contribute enough since he is only the leader of the entire student body.

The things I have cited herein exemplify the joke of the Honor's Convocation. Is there a solution? Yes, I feel that there is. Number 1: define your criteria for Achievement Key and also list the qualifications of those who are eligible. Number 2: make sure the two parts of number one coincide.

I think that the lack of enthusiasm on the part of the audience to the assembly supports my statement. Even some of those people receiving the awards questioned their significance. So let's face up to the task of rewarding those who deserve it and not give people things that do not belong to them. That, my friends, is a fraud.

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Student Maryland State Teachers Association I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the entire student body of Salisbury State College for their help and cooperation during the recent SMSTA convention. Special and heartfelt thanks go to Miss Linda Hastings who acted as chairman and coordinator of all the convention activities. The professional manner in which she handled the arrangements and the numerous details and the understanding with which she met the trying moments are to be commended.

Without the committees, their chairmen, and hard workers the convention would never have run so smoothly, nor as efficiently as it did. Thanks to everyone for their efforts. Our personal gratitude to all those Salisbury students who shared their rooms and welcomed the convention delegates into their dorms. Thanks also to Miss Stewart for her generous help and cooperation.

A special mention should be made of those who participated in the convention program: Dr. Willis, Dean of Instruction; Dr. Stevens, Education Dept.; Mr. Lawson Barnett, and Mr. John O'May. A warm thanks to the third graders of the campus school who so graciously brought in the beautiful flowers that brightened our luncheon tables on Saturday. In addition, we would like to thank the entire college staff who made our stay so pleasant.

I, for one, will never forget the 1967 SMSTA convention, the lovely Salisbury campus, or the hard-working, enthusiastic members of the SNEA. Kudos on a job well done.

Sincerely,
Sue Mattingly

Letters to the Editor

(Michael Garrick, S.G.A. president, received the following letter and requested that it be published for the benefit of any interested.)

"Dear President:

We are college students who have kept silent too long about the lack of support and patriotism concerning the United States' efforts in Viet Nam.

We are disgusted and ashamed of the latest outburst in Central Park where an American flag was burned and many students, including one in an Armed Services uniform, burned their draft cards.

In supporting the Constitution of the United States, we support the principle of freedom of speech and respect every individual's right to an opinion. However, the burning of an American flag is a degradation which we cannot tolerate.

We feel that these students represent a minority opinion in the United States and believe such demonstrations hinder, rather than help the United States' efforts in obtaining world peace.

Regardless of how or why the United States became involved in Viet Nam we feel that the position of the United States must be supported at this time. We are therefore organizing a peaceful and controlled march of students on Washington, D. C. on June 17, 1967. It is our purpose in doing so to show the nation and the world that recent demonstrations do not in actuality represent the majority opinion of students in the United States.

It is imperative that the march be peaceful and organized. We have contacted the President, Vice President and members of Congress and support among students is very encouraging.

If any students are interested in participating their support would be most appreciated."

Sincerely yours,

SGA Evaluation

The Student Government Board has established a committee to investigate the possibility of evaluating the college's faculty. The committee began by defining its purpose, which was to offer constructive criticism to the faculty. Hopefully, this would improve the general quality of student-faculty communication and, by letting the professor know what is liked or disliked about him, help the faculty to supply more effective instruction.

This committee has now held four open meetings, two of which have been attended by members of the faculty. The two main considerations were the mechanics of carrying out the evaluation and the actual questions to be asked. The committee decided that the evaluation should be used only by the faculty person involved and that no other person should see the completed evaluation sheet. An SGA Board member will request time from each faculty member for each of his classes and, if this is granted, distribute the questionnaires. The person administering the questionnaires will then collect them and seal them. The professor will receive these at the end of the semester. In this way, the student writing the evaluation will remain anonymous. Any faculty member not wishing to be evaluated will not be. The questions will concern the professor, his interest, the lectures, the quizzes, and the assignments. The evaluation will conclude with an open question so that any ideas not pertinent to the other questions can be placed there.

This questionnaire will now pass to the SGA Board for its approval. It will then be discussed by Dr. Devilbiss and the faculty. If this plan is generally acceptable, it will be put into effect next year.

We are indeed proud of our alumni and are pleased to report some of their achievements and honors which have come to our attention.

Miss Julia A. Crawford, sixth grade teacher in the Pinehurst Elementary School, Salisbury, is the recipient of a Wye Institute Award given in recognition of excellence in teaching. Miss Crawford, class of 1960, will use her $600 grant for travel in Europe this coming summer.

William A. Knieley has been appointed by Governor Spiro T. Agnew as a member of the Wicomico County Board of Education. Mr. Knieley is a graduate of Wicomico Senior High School and of Salisbury State College, class of 1954. He has taught in the Wicomico County schools and in the sixth grade of the Campus Elementary School. His wife, Carolyn Bennett Knieley, is also one of our graduates, year 1955.

Mrs. Mildred I. Turner, B.S. 1944, presently principal of the Nanticoke School, will effective September 1, be principal of West Side Elementary School in Wicomico County.

George H. Mason Jr. was selected as the Outstanding Young Educator of Wicomico County. Mr. Mason, class of 1957, is a science instructor in James M. Bennett High School, Salisbury. His wife, Roberta Burns Mason, is the first grade teacher in the Campus Elementary School. Mrs. Mason is our graduate of 1957.

W. Wayne Smith, alumnus of Salisbury State College, B.S. 1958, is receiving his Doctor of Philosophy degree in history at the University of Maryland in June. Mr. Smith is now on the faculty of Southern Connecticut State College, New Haven, Conn. His wife, June Taylor Smith, is an alumna of SSC, class of 1960. Mrs. Smith is studying for her Masters Degree at Southern Connecticut. They have a five year old son, Jeffrey.

These five are just a few of the many who are building on the foundation they laid at Salisbury State College. To all our alumni, best wishes for their success and happiness.

Courses Added To Curriculum

Three new courses will be added to the Salisbury State College curriculum for the first semester of 1967-1968. The Chemistry Department will add a three credit course called Organic Preparations which is designed to deal with more advanced methods of preparing organic compounds. The prerequisite for the new course, Chemistry 405, will be Chemistry 203 and 204. There will be two new speech courses next fall. Speech 300, The Oral Interpretation of Literature, which is presently being offered as a two credit course, will be offered as a three credit course next semester. The analysis of notable contemporary speeches will be the foundation for original speeches in Speech 301, The Essentials of Public Speaking. The prerequisite for this course will be Speech 100 or the consent of the instructor.

Faculty Pursues Graduate Study

Five members of the Salisbury State College faculty are going to continue their graduate studies in lieu of teaching new year.

Mrs. Jacqueline Oberfrank, who for five years has been the director of Sophomores Players and a speech instructor, is going to study for her doctorate at the University of Iowa. The geography department is losing Mr. Alton Thompson, who has been an instructor for two years, to the University of Cincinnati for his doctoral study. After two years as an assistant professor in the math department, Mr. Paul Wasik will be continuing his graduate studies at the University of Maryland. Mr. Charles Luttrell of the math department, who has been on leave from the college during the second semester, is doing graduate work at the University of Maryland and will be associated with a research company in Frederick, Maryland, next year. Mr. John Kadlubowski, who has been on leave from the college to continue his doctoral studies at the University of Maryland, has accepted a position in the history department of Indiana State University in Indiana, Pennsylvania, for the coming year.

The junior class has nominated the following people: President: Larry Cassell and Neil Webster; Vice-President: Donna Miller and John O'May; Secretary: Ann Dietrich, Carolyn Lecates, and Helen Schmidt; Treasurer: Joyce Bush, Bill Moffit, and Laurel Weatherly; SGA Representative: Craig Beauchamp, Linda Eberling, Janice Hann, Steve Land, and Greg Wood; Student Life Committee Representatives: Nancy McNeice, Kathy O'Brien, Kay Taylor, and Ann Woernle.

The senior class has nominated the following persons: President: Gene Streagle; Vice-President: Wyatt Wallace; Secretary: Cheryl Meyers; Treasurer: Doug Eisenhauer, John King; SGA Representative: Sharon Meredith; Student Life Committee Representatives: Bonnie Legates, Myrna Moore, and George Pearce.

Mrs. Jacqueline Oberfrank recently announced that the student productions for the acting and directing course, Speech 305, will be presented May 21 and 22 at 8:00 p.m. in the Caruthers School auditorium. The three plays, Miss Julie, The Bald Soprano, and A Marriage Proposal, will be directed by Judy Handy, Lee Jackson, and Allen Cook, respectively. All three one-act plays have very little physical action, but are packed with internal conflict.

Miss Julie, starring Ruth Cohen, Tom Pennewell, and Linda Hemmings, is set in the 1880's in the kitchen of a Swedish manor house. "This play is a drama," stated Mrs. Handy. "It illustrates what happens when the barriers of society are crossed and the penalty which must be paid for breaking its rules."

A Marriage Proposal, according to director Allen Cook, is a Russian farce set at the turn of the century, which holds the manners of the aristocracy up to ridicule. The roles in the play will be executed by Carol Voelker, Steve Havener, and Mr. Sidney Kaplan.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

College and Community Join in Concert

The College Chorus Concert, an annual spring occurrence at Salisbury State, was held on May 9 in the Holloway Hall auditorium. Sponsored by the music department, the program was under the direction of Dr. Jessie L. Fleming and Mr. Ray H. Zeigler, Jr.

The featured work, performed during the second part of the program, was the Johann Sebastian Bach Cantata No. 140 "Sleepers Awake" for chorus, soloists, and orchestra.

The program was the result of a joint effort by college, community and alumni. The chorus for the Cantata included the College Chorus, members of the alumni and various other singers recruited from the community and from church choirs. The orchestra was the Peninsula String Ensemble with two flutes, a French horn and a trumpet added.

Dr. Donald Rolley, bass, Mrs. Meta Justice Smith, soprano, and

Mr. Robert Artz, tenor, were the soloists for the Cantata. Two are from Salisbury; Dr. Rolley is a dentist here and Mrs. Smith is the choral director at Wicomico Senior High School. Mr. Artz is a business education teacher at Seaford, Delaware High School.

Various groups from the college supplied the music during the first portion of the program. The College Chorus sang "March of the Toredors" from Carmen by Bizet. "Jesu, Joy of Man's Destrining" by J. S. Bach, "Love Is Come Again", an old French carol, and "The Road Not Taken" by Thompson. The Ladies Ensemble did "Liebestraum" by Liszt with Mr. Zeigler performing the piano solo. Five members of the ensemble sang "How Lovely Are the Words of Jesus." The Madrigal Group rendered "Sing We and Chant It" by Morley and "Gentle Jesus, Meek and Mild," a Hungarian hymn.

Besides the singing groups, several students who play instruments performed. Trumpeters Barry Tull, Michael Adams and Linda Kates played "Now Thank We All Our God," Frank Parks, playing the saxophone, gave "Impressions of Summer" and Keith Fleming, soloing on the cello, played "The Swan" from "Carnival of the Animals."

This was not the first time that members of the community had participated in a college concert. In 1965, the College Chorus, the orchestra and several church choir members from the community performed the "Schubert Mass in G." As Dr. Fleming said, "Everyone enjoyed this experience so much that we thought we would try it again this spring."

The participants in the concert had been practicing since April. All of the groups rehearsed together only twice before the actual performance.

MEN'S SPORTS

By Wayne Powell

The Gulls baseball squad is winging its way to Salisbury's best season in years. After fourteen games, the Gulls had already bettered their '66 output of victories with a record of 9-5. The most recent Gull's triumphs, at this writing, came at the expense of Towson State, by a 2-0 margin and Philadelphia College of the Bible, by a score of 4-1. Phil Briggs, who has regained his 1966 form, was the winner for the Gulls in both contests. Briggs leads the Gull's mound staff in practically every department. He has a record of 4-2, has pitched 47 innings, walking 16 and struck out 50. Also, in that span he has allowed only 32 hits while bringing his ERA down to 3.25. In the victory over Towson, Briggs went the distance, giving up only two hits and fanning 12. Denny Marriott led the Gull's hitting attack, going 2 for 4 and driving across the Gull's two scores. In the victory over Philadelphia, Briggs and freshman Pat Conway divided the mound chores, allowing only five hits and combining to strike out 12. Al Planner went 2 for 4 for the Gulls and also collected a RBI.

In the statistics department, the Gulls have managed to keep their team batting average fairly high; it now stands at .242. They have committed 41 errors in their 14 games for a fielding average of .922. Steve Land leads the Gulls hitters with a .341 mark and is tied with Denny Marriott for leadership in the RBI department with 9. Marriott leads the Gulls with 17 hits, 7 stolen bases, and 14 runs scored. His average of .333 makes him the only other Gull regular hitting over 300. The only Salisbury home runs have been hit by Steve Land and Phil Briggs.

Already, this year, the Gulls have assured Coach Deshon of his first winning baseball season, and with every victory, the Gulls make a new entry in the S.S.C. record books for most wins in a season. Good luck to our Sea Gulls as they continue to fly high.

For the record, here are the Gulls scores to date:

WOMEN'S SPORTS

Recently the W.A.A. had its elections for the 1967-1968 General Board. Nancy Gifford will lead the organization next year as President. The other officers will be V. P., Ann Woernle; Secretary, Linda DeMoss; and Treasurer, Terry Miller. 187 women voted in the elections on May 2. The ironic note of the election results was that the winners came in pairs, two sets of roommates.

The W.A.A. has a new piece of equipment, an Instamatic 104 camera. Already it has been put to use at the recent High School Play Day. All pictures will be used in the W.A.A. Scrapbook, which now boasts 13 years of existence.

Every Tuesday and Thursday from 5:00 to 6:00 p.m., several women on campus have been pretending to be Robin Hood. There is a newly organized Archery Club, thanks to Nancy Ranneburger, Kaye Alfonsi, and Miss Morrison. Other girls participating are Helen Schmidt, Gail McMahan, Carolyn Greenfield, Bobbi Bradbury, Sandy Carroll, Bobbie Fields, Sue Kleinsmith, Paula Yost, Cheryl Zeitschel, Diane Mason, and Nelda Caulk. These girls are becoming very proficient. Please contact the board if you would like to be their moving target.

Only three people signed up for Badminton this year, so the tournament was cancelled. Our thanks to Jetta Reynolds, Mary Janeczek, and John Osinski.

Tennis mixed doubles are now being played. Already the first matches have been completed, and final results will be available soon.

The last co-ed Volleyball games were played May 6 in the gym. Thanks goes to Sandy DuVall, Gail Pippig, and Peggy Foxwell for a job well done. This event seems to be the one activity on campus where men outnumber women. Keep it up!

On May 13, two cars of General Board members will attend a Maryland Athletic and Recreation Conference at Baltimore Junior College. Professors, take pity on these girls since they must leave at 5:30 a.m.

On May 16 the curtain will rise for the fourth Modern Dance Recital. It seems that a surprise is in store. Standing room only!

Volleyball Intramurals are over now. The Fruit Loops overcame the Cheerios, Apple Jacks, Cocoa Puffs, Corn Flakes, Crispy Critters, Lucky Charms, and Wheaties. The all Senior team included Gail Pippig, Sandy DuVall, Ellen Hugel, Mary Reynolds, Marge Redden, Nancy Jackson, Helen Schiebelhoffer, and Caroline Bertling. These lucky Seniors were awarded the "Cereal Trophy" for their performance.

The Annual W.A.A. Banquet will be May 17 at 6:30 p.m. Mr. Tennis himself, Mr. William Riordan, will be guest speaker. Contact Sharon Meredith or Nelda Caulk for information.

Next year there will be several vacancies on the W.A.A. General Board. If interested, see Nancy Gifford.

SGA Wants 19 As Voting Age

At a convention of the Maryland Association of College Student Governments held at the University of Maryland, over the April 28-29 weekend, Salisbury was among those schools endorsing a measure to lower the voting age in the State of Maryland to nineteen.

A convention will be held in Annapolis this fall to revise the constitution of the State of Maryland. The delegates to this convention have it within their power to change the voting age from the present age of twenty-one to nineteen.

If we can gather enough signatures supporting this measure, it will provide an effective arguing point for those who wish to see it changed. In the next week or so, you may be contacted by a member of the Student Government Association to sign such a petition. Please make your decision carefully; if the change is made, it will have a lasting effect on the politics of this State.

Frosh Presents Modern Dance

The fourth annual Modern Dance Recital is to be given by the freshman girls and the Modern Dance Club, under the direction of Miss Mariuna Morrison.

Since the beginning of second semester, every girl in the freshman class has been preparing for this recital. Twenty-three groups of girls have selected music, made costumes, arranged choreography and organized lighting, all on their own, to make this the most rewarding recital ever. Rewarding, they hope, in more ways than one, since this dance takes the place of their final examination grade in physical education.

The recital promises to be varied and, to say the least, interesting. The music ranges from an interpretation of "West Side Story" to "Old Man River." Other selections include "Chiquita Banana" the "Travels of James Bond," and the "Munsters," the only comedy number on the program. Also included in the program will be a dance, to Miss Dolores Miller's reading of "The Congo" by the Modern Dance Club.

The Modern Dance Club has seven active members who have been meeting weekly since the beginning of first semester. Members of the club recently attended a workshop at the University of Delaware.

Chimney sweeps in Basel, Switzerland, still wear traditional top hats; they carry ladders and brooms. But some have added a modern touch — they use portable vacuum cleaners, the National Geographic says.

PURSUED

I hail from nowhere and there I'm bound, going to take refuge where I'll never be found.

Going to the ocean, the eternal sea, to seek an escape from mine enemy.

He'll follow me though, and I'll never be free to find that peace that never can be.

I must have some help; oh God, set me free — get rid of my foe . . . get rid of me.

Thirty-seven states now rank tourism as one of their top three money-makers. Three years ago, only 24 states considered tourism a leading industry.

Eastern Shore Philosopher

By Jane Fields

Sid and I went for a drive the other afternoon down to Siloam to a Saturday auction sale. There weren't many real bargains at the sale but the ride down was a pretty one. What with all those dogwoods in bloom and the flowers a poppin' up you couldn't help lovin' the Shore. Captain White hasn't had too much luck with his garden this year. Seems that the ground has some kind of disease — things just don't grow right.

Actually I was just thinking about ground and land and places and how the Shore has some really mellow names, just plain pleasant and fun to say. Like there's Rockawalkin, Tyaskin, Mardela Springs, Quantico, Riverton, Nanticoke, and Oriole. Most of the names come from the Indians, but then the many different people that come to the Shore help a little I suppose.

Most places on the Shore are known for something in particular such as Bivalve for its church suppers, Sharptown for its carnival and hot oyster sandwiches, Reliance for being the location of the famous Patti Cannon house, and Wango for its now non-existent bakery. But if you ever get a chance, drive yourself over to Girdletree, Gumboro, Secretary, East New Market or Walston Switch.

As Sid said as he got off at the grocery store, "take care and save your pennies and dimes for hard times is just around the corner."

Quillen Attends History Forum

James P. Quillen of Berlin, Maryland, represented Salisbury State College and the college chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national honor society in history, at a regional conference meeting of the society held at American University, Washington, D. C. on Saturday, April 15, 1967. Mr. Quillen presented a paper "The Theories of Captain Alfred Thayer Mahan as they are reflected in the Battle of Jutland, 31 May 1916" at the spring conference which provided an opportunity for member colleges and universities to gather annually and to share their experiences in research.

Mr. Quillen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Quillen, is a member of the Class of 1968 and is majoring in history. Currently, he serves as president of the Dormitory Association of Wicomico Hall. He has also been active in The Holly Leaf, the college newspaper, is a member of the House Council of his residence hall, and Phi Alpha Theta. He has merited the honor of being named to the Dean's List for two consecutive semesters.

Also attending the conference was Miss Linda Bennett, president of the local chapter, and several student delegates. Dr. Millard G. LesCallette, Professor of History, serves as advisor to tee group.
